

DELTA COUNTY TOWNSHIPS & TOWNS

AN INTRODUCTION TO DELTA COUNTY

In the seventeenth century French explorers, missionaries and fur traders visited the county. In the nineteenth century a number of developments took place at various points of the county which would attract immigrants. In the 1860s the Chicago and Northwestern Railway opened the county to areas to the south. In 1887 the Soo Line opened for service.

The furnace town of Fayette on the Garden Peninsula to the east was home to French Canadian charcoal makers and later farmers. Gladstone became a small industrial city and a rail center. Escanaba became an iron port as early as 1864. Commercial fishing became important and the city became a manufacturing center for paper, iron, chemical and hardwood products. In all of these developments there was a demand for immigrant laborers and service personnel.
