The NMU Computer Science Internship Program is extremely active these days, thanks in no small part to the students themselves.

In a two-part series, four of our returning students will present their stories, insights and advice from four very different engagements. Through their presentations and subsequent Q&A sessions, we will find out what is common and what varies across internships at Intel and Allstate from the west coast (Oregon and California) to the mid-west.

Join us as we begin this series with two of the above speakers!
