II. Roles and Responsibilities of the Athletic Council Chair/Faculty Athletics Representative

Faculty Athletics Representative (FAR) (Defined): The term “faculty Athletics Representative” derives from NCAA usage and denotes the perceived need on the part of the athletics programs. Thus, whether the individual is appointed by the chief executive officer or is elected by the faculty, those who hold this position are designated faculty athletics representatives. Faculty athletics representatives provide oversight and advice in the administration of an institutional athletics program. The working relationship between the chief executive officer and the faculty athletics representative is a critically important determinant of the effectiveness of the faculty athletics representative in contributing to the local control of the intercollegiate athletics program. (Faculty Athletics Representative Handbook, p. 9, 1998)

Relationship between FAR and CEO: The basis of this relationship should be a model of institutional control in which significant responsibilities for administration and oversight are assigned to the faculty athletics representative, as well as to the director of athletics. It is important that the CEO recognize that the range of activities and the scope of responsibilities of the faculty athletics representative elevate this position above the level of the typical faculty service appointment and it is recommended that those who hold this position have permanent tenure. Faculty athletics representatives are as effective as their CEO empowers them to be, both in terms of the responsibilities assigned and the
The extent of institutional support provided. (Faculty Athletics Representative Handbook, p. 9, 1998)

To be an effective advisor, the faculty athletics representative must be knowledgeable regarding the athletics program and must develop time and attention required to attain this familiarity. To be useful in this role, the faculty athletics representative should have access to information regarding all aspects of the program. To ensure this access, the faculty athletics representative needs to carry authority from the CEO, and this authority should be recognized on all campus venues.
