Teacher certification is required for employment in public schools. A Master's Degree may be necessary for employment in college. Obtaining an internship or part-time employment in these areas will make you more marketable when seeking a job after graduation. Remember to take any necessary entrance exams early; it can take up to six weeks for results to be sent to the schools to which you applied.

With the continued interest in health and fitness, physical education graduates should have a solid market to enter. Jobs working either as a personal trainer or as an athletic coordinator at a health club or community center should provide jobs in the coming years. The median salary for physical education careers should be in the upper half of the $20,000 to $30,000 range.

Course Work

This degree includes the following courses as part of the program requirements, and specific major requirements along with liberal studies and graduation requirements.

Career Development

You should begin the resume-building process as soon as you can. The Academic and Career Advisement Center can assist you with career planning, while Career Services will help you fine tune your resume and look for jobs related to your field. In the meantime, the more hands-on experience you have, the better the chances are that you will find a job. Becoming involved in a professional related internship is a way to develop your professional skills and gain experience. Your academic course work is important as well, so be sure to maintain a high grade point average.

Additional Considerations

A degree in Physical Education focuses on the design, management, implementation, and supervision of recreational and leisure activities. The ability to relate and interact with people of varying ages and backgrounds is a valuable skill to possess in this major. Team building and teaching through leading and supervising others is also important. You can expect to be exposed to course work that will develop your written and oral communication skills in addition to providing a sound foundation in the theories and practices of this discipline. An outgoing, patient attitude as well as sensitivity to the human need for recreation and balance are attributes of someone thinking about a major in Physical Education. This curriculum at NMU prepares students for the broad professional fields of physical education, as well as for graduate studies.
