

Dr. Qinghong Zhang presents

Implementing Active Learning in Math Classes

As a catalyst of an NSF funded active learning project, Dr. Zhang will share his experience in implementing some of the active learning strategies in his mathematics classes.

Specifically, he will talk about what he has learned through this project and what kind of materials are appropriate for an active learning activity for a mathematics class. He will also share some of the successful and unsuccessful stories in his classes.

Tuesday, April 29, 2014

12:00 PM

New Science Facility 1209