announcing the 12th annual
First Nations Food Taster

Friday, November 9, 2012
5 - 7 p.m.
D.J. Jacobetti Complex - NORTHERN MICHIGAN UNIVERSITY

This year’s menu features recipes by the Decolonizing Diet Project such as pumpkin cornbread, bison/venison meatloaf, sunbutter cookies, roasted turkey, wild rice, and contemporary Native dishes such as the three sisters casserole and fry bread.

Native flute performance by Dr. Elda Tate, NMU Music Department

Purchase tickets in advance at 112 Whitman Hall, NMU campus (Mon-Thurs 8a - 5p) Available until Nov 8
Advance Ticket prices (children tickets can only be sold at the door)
$5 - NMU students w/ID and Elders
$12 - general public

Ticket prices at the door
$7 - NMU students w/ID, Elders, and children 13 & under (children tickets can only be sold at the door)
$15 - general public

This is a dish bag event! Please help our environment!
Bring your own (unbreakable/non-throwaway) dishware and your name will be entered into a raffle of prizes. Need not be present to win. Write your name, address and phone number on the back of your ticket. We ask you to utilize a dish bag to limit our waste. Please do not incorporate paper plates as part of your dish bag.

For more information - Phone: 906-227-1397 E-mail: nasa@nmu.edu Website: www.nmu.edu/nativeamericans

This event is presented by the NMU Native American Student Association with support from the following NMU departments - Academic Affairs/Office of the Provost, Academic Information Services, Center for Native American Studies, Charter Schools, College of Arts and Sciences, College of Professional Studies, History Department, International Programs, Mathematics & Computer Sciences, Multicultural Education & Resource Center, School of Education and School of Nursing.

Additional thanks to - Aubree’s Pizza, Bonanza, Border Grill, Burger King, Econo Foods, Gordon Food Service, Larry’s Family Foods, Marquette Food Co-Op, Midtown Bakery & Cafe, Panara Imports, Pit Stop Quick Lube, Rodney’s Pizzeria, and WKQS FM

Special thanks to - Chris Kibit and the Hospitality Management Program, the D.J. Jacobetti Complex Staff, Dr. Elda Tate and all the volunteers!